The Democrats want to run Mr. Bookwalter against Mr. Speaker Keifer. It will be remembered that a year ago Mr. Bookwalter entered the Democratic camp, got nominated for Governor, put $100,000 in the pockets of the hungry Democrats, and got badly beaten. It is not likely that they will catch him a second time.

The whole controversy regarding the Garfield funeral expenses was quietly disposed of in an amendment to the General Deficiency bill, which made a total appropriation of $57,500 and limited the amount to be paid to the physicians to $35,000; and all bills must go before a board of audit and there approved in a regular manner.

The people of New York have so far contributed $15,000 to the Tribune Fresh Air fund, and over 3,000 poor children have been sent to the beautiful country of the Adirondacks where they have found rest, generous entertainment, and healthful sport. Mr. T. W. Park, of Bennington, Vermont, appreciating the kindly acts of the New York people, went down to the city himself, and took forty poor children to his own elegant home where he will keep them for a month.

Congressman Williams has returned home from Washington in excellent health considering the great amount of work he has been compelled to perform in the past session, especially during the Shipboard investigation before the Committee on Foreign Affairs of which he is chairman. The session has been a long one and the Peruvian matter threw doubt and responsibility upon his shoulders. But he endured the siege remarkably well and returns home in the enjoyment of good health.

The strength of Governor St. John is showing in his contest for a third term in the Kansas Governorship is one of the surprises of politics which is becoming more frequent in this country. "The most influential Republican newspapers in the State have strongly opposed him and have been aided by the anti-prohibition element in the party. His enemies now ascribe his success to the railroad influence, but it is doubtless almost wholly due to the strength of the temperance element, which has supposed especially to represent.

It is very evident that the Democrats propose to conduct their campaign this fall on the issue of Republican extravagance in Congress. Of course this is another case of false pretense, for the fact remains that no measure for expending the public money was introduced that the Democrats did not support. Then there is another thing which

The Democrats will have to answer for. All the bills to reduce taxation which the Republicans have introduced at this session have had the open or disguised opposition of the Bourbons. For what purpose except to defeat it were thirty-five amendments attached to the Internal Revenue bill in the Senate, and the determination of debating each one avowed? If the skirts of the Republican members of Congress do not clear the ground, those of the Democratic members trail in the mud.

Congress will adjourn this evening, at least that is the expectation. The following is the condition of the calendar: Two hundred and thirty propositions find a resting place upon the calendar of the committee of the whole. Thirty-three of them are public building bills. More than four hundred private relief bills practically find a grave in the private calendar. The Speaker's table is the depository of about two hundred Senate bills, most of them of a private character. Of 2,283 bills and joint resolutions introduced in the Senate, 466 of those passed that body. At the hour of final adjournment, besides a great number of measures not yet reported from Senate committees, there will remain upon the Senate calendar about 100 Senate bills and joint resolutions and seventy-one House bills and resolutions, all of which will have to take their chances at the next session. Aside from the regular annual appropriation bills, about 170 bills and joint resolutions of a public nature have been passed by both houses this session, and have become laws.

THE EXPENDITURES BY CONGRESS.

The first session of the Forty-seventh Congress has appropriated a little over $292,000,000. The expenditures have been unusually large for a Republican Congress, and are much larger than were authorized by a Democratic majority for the last fiscal year. The appropriations made for this session compared with those of last year, are as follows:

	1891	1892
Fortifications.....	$ 580,000	$ 575,000
Military academy.....	335,000	322,000
Armed and equipped.....	1,255,000	1,100,000
Miscellaneous.....	4,000,000	1,125,000
Relief.....	27,000,000	5,125,000
Pensions.....	10,000,000	9,250,000
Post Office.....	41,000,000	40,000,000
Indian.....	6,250,000	4,500,000
Army.....	27,250,000	26,375,000
Navy.....	15,500,000	15,500,000
Geological.....	12,125,000	12,125,000
Survey.....	25,750,000	24,750,000
Rivers and harbors.....	18,125,000	11,125,000
	$292,000,000	$260,375,000

It will be found that the increase in expenditures this year over last will be in round numbers about $30,000,000. In almost every bill there has been an increase. Thirty-two millions have been added to the pension appropriation, over $9,000,000 to the river and harbor "divide," nearly $4,000,000 to the postal bill, and last but not least, $24,000,000 is chargeable to deficiencies caused by the proximity and demagogical pretense of that last Democratic Congress. Aside from the unwarranted appropriation of nearly $19,000,000 for crocks and harbor, and harbors, there has been no expenditures that could have been prevented, or which could be classed as wasteful or improvident. The appropriation of $100,000,000 for pensions is appalling enough, but Congress was compelled to make the appropriation as the arrears bill has not been repealed, and neither party dare take the responsibility of moving for its repeal. The only "grab" which the Forty-seventh Congress has been guilty of is the river and harbor bill and the Democrats get more of this than the Republicans. More than one-half of the above amount is to be expended in the Solid South, though barely one-third of the population reside in that section, and less than one-fifth of the taxes are paid by it.

We may expect that the Democrats will try to make political capital out of the appropriation bills for this year, but they will be disappointed. The only extravagance that could have been avoided, was the river and harbor divide, and the Democrats reap the chief benefit of this.

Lawn Tennis Dresses.

The Jersey waist is liked for lawn tennis dresses, and the full box-plaited skirt is favored to the edge of the waist, just below the hips, with an erect bowing that gives sufficient fish, and dispenses with a scarf or sash. The Jersey waist may be of woven wool, or it may be of the material of the skirt, made in Jersey shape, that is, fitted smoothly over the hips, without a wrinkle, and has a plain Byron collar and turned-over cuffs for its only trimming; this waist most often fastens in front, but very young ladies prefer it buttoned in the back. Sometimes a plain solid color is used for the waist, and the skirt is striped. The striped lawn tennis dresses are now prettily made up in plaited skirts to be worn with a sixteen polonaise that fits like a corset or Jersey, and is lightly draped below the hips. Two contrasting colors, one of which is very light and the other very dark, are in the inch-wide stripes; when plaited, the dark stripe is on top of each plait. This is pretty in ecru with maroon, or blue, or with cardinal; the polonaise is like the dark color, and may be made of cotton, satin, or of serge, or flannel of light quality. Occasionally the entire suit is made of stripes, and sometimes the horizontal stripes are used. For these dresses a box-plaited blouse with a belt and a short wrinkled apron are worn with a plaited skirt. White twilled wool in which there is a great deal of cotton, but which looks like serge, flannel, and is said to clean nicely, is imported under the name of lawn tennis cloth, and is sold for single-woven and half-calf a yard in length. Awning striped cottons such as were used last year for the skirts of mountain dresses are also sold for parts of lawn tennis costumes.—Harper's Bazar.

A MERE SKIRMISH.

LONDON, Aug. 6.—The official report of Admiral Seymour concerning the encounter with the enemy of a reconnaissance party at Mahall Junction Saturday is as follows: "Our force consisted of 200 men, a naval brigade with one forty-four pounder and two nine-pounder guns, under Captain Fisher; 1,000 marines under Colonel Tison; half a battalion of the Thirty-eighth and Forty-sixth Regiments, and also the Sixtieth Regiment. We had a skirmish with the enemy, which was 2,000 strong (with six guns and six rockets), from 5.30 until in the evening. The total casualties to the naval brigade and marines were two killed and twenty-two wounded."

A PITTSBURG HORROR.

Pittsburg, Pa., Aug. 6.—While the fire was still in progress in McKelvey Bros' carriage factory this morning, twenty-five firemen entered the burning building to better enable them to fight the flames. Ten of this number ascended to the second story, and had barely reached there when a side wall and the floor gave way, precipitating them to the floor beneath. All were more or less injured by the fall and lying debris, but four of them, named respectively John Green, Charles Little, Robert Killian, and Philip Maguire, were seriously and probably fatally injured. The remaining fifteen, who were on the ground floor, managed to escape unhurt. The origin of the fire is unknown.

OPPOSITION TO PRICE.

LA CROSSE, Aug. 5.—The old personal and political enemies of W. T. Price are looking about to produce a combustion to defeat the wild man of Jackson. They claim that there are 1,400 voters in and about Eau Claire, who are "pisen" on any man who is in favor of calling out the militia to quell labor riots, and then they say that W. T. Price made a speech in the Assembly last year in favor of sending some of the citizen soldiery up to Superior county to put down the unpaid and obstreperous toilers with the pick and shovel who threatened vengeance on somebody at the Air Line Road collapsed. Then they say that Price is an all-Sunday-and-no-beer-man, and that he is therefore distasteful to German Republicans. The scheme is for a fusion of the dissatisfied or "independent" element of the Republican party with the Fifth District Democrats, which might result in defeating Price. On the other hand, it would be necessary for the tail to wag the dog—i. e., that the fusion candidate shall be a true blue Republican, and that the Democrats shall support him with unanimity. The rock-rooted Bourbons, however, can't for the life of their soul see how one Republican in Congress would be better than any other, and hence the whole scheme, Price's friends say, will vanish in the smoke.

A MIDNIGHT MARRIAGE.

A Sensational Romance at Long Beach.

New York, Aug. 6.—The Herald's Long Beach, L. I. special says: "The most sensational romance in the history of Long Beach culminated in a marriage at midnight last evening. The usual throng of visitors came down on the afternoon train yesterday, and among the guests of the hotel were Mr. Lewis Mills, of the New York Produce Exchange, and Miss Mamma Latty, of Brooklyn. Mr. Mills was evidently charmed with the society of his affianced, as well as with the music, for he entirely forgot how swiftly the hours were passing until quite late, when he looked at his watch and found that the train for New York had gone. Then he began to realize the embarrassment of the situation. Mr. Mayor Wickham, two or three of his friends, and Mr. Townsend, of the Exchange, were taken into a board of consultation. The Mayor wished to have the young lady stay with his family in his cottage, but unfortunately every room was occupied. Mr. Townsend, the manager of the hotel, said there was only one room left, and he advised the young man to get married. This heroic measure the ex-Mayor thought unnecessary. He was sure some lady would share her room with Miss Latty. Mr. Mills returned to the clerk's desk and said he did not like the condition of affairs, and that he would rather give his life than have his sweetheart compromised. She was highly connected, and as a man of honor he was bound to protect her good name. Mr. Mills soon discovered that a priest, Father Kearney, of Hempstead, was staying in the hotel, and the reverend gentleman was soon aroused from his bed. He listened to the broker's story, dressed with care, and visited the young lady, and had a long conversation with her. When Father Kearney had satisfied himself that all was right, he sent for witnesses, and a ceremony of marriage was performed in the priest's room at midnight. Then Mr. Mills was a proud and happy man. When the news of the midnight marriage was necessarily imparted to the ladies at breakfast there was general commotion. The result was that baskets of flowers and other presents of various kinds and descriptions were sent to the handsome young wife of Mr. Mills. But the subsequent attentions of the ladies became so enthusiastic that the couple took an early train for New York. The broker vows that they will make it lively for Mills after he put in an appearance at the Exchange.

THE PRISON MURDER.

WATSON, Aug. 6.—George Watson, the inmate of the State prison, who fatally stabbed another inmate named John Shevey, yesterday morning, will be tried for the offense by the county judge. Though a man of fair intelligence, he does not realize the enormity of the crime and suffers no remorse. His prison record is good, and he has been credited with a desire to reform, having frequently talked with great earnestness at the Sunday meetings. The murder was committed in a most deliberate manner, he having lain in wait for his victim in shop No. 1, on pretense of sharpening his knife, knowing that Shevey would pass. Immediately after the murder he went into the cell-room and to Turnkey Brooks said: "You had better take care of me, as there is a man out there who is awful sick." Shevey was 30 years old and was serving a two years' term for stealing some books from a schoolhouse in Jones county, and his term would have expired in June next. The murderer is about the same age and has served two terms here under different names. He is now serving a term of three years for forgery committed at Waukegan, where he forged the name of the Superintendent of the Industrial School to order for a suit of clothes. He had previously served a term at Adams, Ia., and one at Joliet, Ill., the latter for shooting an officer.

CHILL AND THE FIDDLE.

New York, Aug. 6.—The Herald's Long Branch, L. I. special says: Robert G. Ingersoll arose early this morning and took a plunge into the sea and remained sporting among the breakers for an hour and a half. The result was a severe chill, and he went from the water to bed. Friends dropped in, and Remenyi called down at 11 o'clock with his violin and played in Ingersoll's cottage some of his choicest music, but still the distinguished orator was unable to sit up with his friends. At sundown the chill passed away and to-night he leaves for Washington.

OBITUARY.

RACINE, Aug. 6.—Mr. George Veumont died suddenly at his home in the town of Dover, this county, last night, aged 77 years, of apoplexy. He was one of the oldest Free Masons in the county, and resided in Dover 40 years. He was a wealthy farmer.

The Duke's Death.

"Kneel here by my side, Lurline," and in obedience to the summons, a beautiful girl flung herself in an abandon of grief near the bed on which lay the eighth Duke of Twenty-second street, Rupert Hollington. Rupert was dying—dying away out on the West Side. A cold had developed into a quick consumption. "The dreaded disease had made known its presence while Rupert was at the house of a friend on Ladlin street. 'You can not live more than a week,' the doctor had said. 'But my people,' cried the sick man, in an agony of fear; 'they are on Twenty-second street, and too poor to hire a carriage. How shall I see them?' and he wrung his hands in an agony of despair."

"It can not be done, my lass," said the street-railway superintendent, looking down kindly into Lurline's face. "I could gladly do as you wish, but I can not accomplish impossibilities. A car from Twenty-second street to the corner of Ladlin and Van Buren in five days? By my halidom, you jest bravely," and, picking up a pair of shears, he again resumed his occupation of cutting coupons from government bonds. When Lurline had knelt by the dying man, he turned to her and spoke: "Lurline, my darling," he said. "I am dying now. I shall soon be in the sweetest quietude. But ere I start, I want you to make me one promise—a sacred one, that you will keep forever. 'Name it,' said the girl, in a sob-clogged voice. 'Whenever you are in a hurry, avoid the street car.' 'I promise,' was the reply. Rupert's face lit up with a sweet, peaceful smile. "Good-bye, my angel." "Burg soir," was the faint response, as the girl's head fell on his breast amid a storm of sobs. "I see heaven," murmured the dying man. "I know it is a heaven, because there are lots of street cars, and they run every three minutes." Rupert was dead.—Chicago Tribune.

A New Church Beneficiary.

A new scheme has broken out among the Eastern churches to provide for "God's poor." Each church is buying a farm, to which poor people are sent to work out their salvation in fear and turning patches. This combination of religion and rural vagabondage is a happy one, and ought to come into general practice. Steady work on a farm cannot but be far more preferable to the poor of a church than good advice and fine conversation, that is now lavished upon them regardless of cost. There is always something on a farm that anybody can do, and do well, and that will be worth good wages, if the laborer is fairly remunerated, and a church society would be sure to do this. Then, in the fall, when the golden harvest was gathered, ered, the church members would of course give their patronage to their own farm and lay in their winter supply of potatoes, carrots, beets, onions, etc., from their own vines and figures, so to speak. The report of the Superintendent would show whether the farm was drifting financially, and if it needed any fertilizing top-dressing in the way of a mortgage. Ministers whose health is poor, from hard study and overwork, instead of being sent on an expensive tour to the Holy Land, could be transplanted from the stifling atmosphere of the study to the beautiful air of the balm, breezy country, and set to raising cucumbers on the farm. The exercise would do them good, even if they did not raise enough cucumbers for a mess, and what the church lost on cucumbers it would more than save on traveling expenses. It seems to us as though the true plan of salvation has been struck at last. It is not through any of the five hundred different plans advocated by the five hundred different churches, but through the modest cauliflower, the lowly onion and the golden crookneck summer squash.—Peck's Sun.

Tattooing Confined Criminals.

A correspondent of the Chicago Tribune proposes that confined burglars, highwaymen, thieves and rogues for a first offense should be imprisoned for a short time and tattooed, say, on the forearm. For the second offense of the same kind let him undergo longer imprisonment and be tattooed on the cheek or the exposed part of the neck. This would be the brand of Cain. Recording these tattoo-marks would facilitate the identification of criminals, as the body-marks cannot be erased except by surgical operation at the expense of a permanent scar. The fear of tattooing would act as a powerful deterrent to those about to commit crimes, and also take away the motive to escape from those who had merited and received the third penalty or open tattoo and were sentenced to long periods of imprisonment.
